

October 1, 2003

Study Group on Representations concerning Fee-charging Home for the Elderly has concluded discussions and published its report

From the standpoint of dealing strictly with misleading representations regarding the contents of various services at fee-charging homes for the elderly and taking measures to prevent them beforehand by clarifying representations that may lead to consumer's misunderstanding, the Japan Fair Trade Commission has held meetings of the Study Group concerning Representations of Fee-charging Home for the Elderly (Chairman: Michitaro Urakawa, professor, Waseda University) since May, 2003, with the intention of enacting the specific notification on the basis of the provisions of Section 4 Paragraph 3 of the Premiums and Representations Act.

The Study Group has concluded discussions and published its report.